A variant of Method of Step Algorithm for a delay differential equation

Fátima Fabião, Paulo Brito, António StAubyn

Lisboa, Portugal

We develop a new method to obtain explicit solutions for a first order linear delay differentail equation based upon the generating function concept. The advantage of this new method as regards the traditional Method of Step Algorithm (MSA) is also showed through an example.

Acknowledgement

References

[1] R. Bellman and K. L. Cooke (1963). Differential Difference Equations. Academic Press, New York.

[2] O. Diekmann, S. M. V. Lunel, S. A. Van Gils, and H.O. Walther (1995). Delay Equations: Functional, Complex, and Nonlinear Analysis. Springer, New York.

[3] M. F. Fabião, P.B. Brito, and A. StAubyn (2008). A tree combinatorial structure on the solution of a delay differential equation: a generating function approach. AIP Conference Proceedings 1048: 118–121.

[4] J. K. Hale (1977). Theory of Functional Di erential Equations. Springer, New York.

[5] E. D. Rainville (1971). Special Functions. Chelsea, New York.